Market Review

Fixed income markets continued to advance in May. The move was driven by improvement of the coronavirus situation and lockdown easing. Governments and central banks also provided additional support to counter the economic crisis. In this context, the German Bund yield receded (+14 bps to -0.45%). Inversely, peripheral spreads tightened strongly (Spain -30 bps, Italy -43 bps, Greece -78 bps). In the wake of the equity rally, corporate bonds performed well. IG corporate bonds increased by 0.17%. Spread tightened (-10 bps) despite record issuance, which more than offset the negative yield effect. High yield bonds performed even further (+2,77%) as spreads rallied (-79 bps). Single-B and hybrid bonds outperformed the other segments.

Portfolio Performance

The fund gained 2.04% in May, as corporate bonds posted strong returns. Single-B (incl. Diversey, Loxam, Altice, Sotheby's, IHS, Almativa) and hybrid bonds (incl. EDF, Aroundtown, Eurofins) performed well. By contrast, government bonds (US, Germany), some of the most impacted names (WFS, Sixt) and the USD performed negatively.

Market Outlook

While markets have rebounded significantly for the second month in a row, opportunities are still present. Credit spreads have retraced by only 50% and should continue to do while the coronavirus situation improves.

Consequently, we increased high yield bonds (incl. Dometic, Diversey, Burger King France, Paprec, Picard) and hybrid bonds (EDF, Santander, ING, Accor) slightly. We also participated in new issue (Synlab, Ferrari). On the contrary, we reduced fragile names (incl. WFS, Walnut, Vivion). We also sold core government bonds (Germany, US), IG bonds (US-names mostly) and reduced FX exposure (USD, JPY).
